

WORCESTER AND BIRMINGHAM CANAL (AREA 5)

PRUE EVANS

- 1 The beginning of the Birmingham Worcester canal is the Birmingham canal old line, starting at Gas Street Basin up to the Middleway, by Five Ways Station.
 - 2 Looking back at The Cube, a favourite of mine in an area crowded with new high rise architectural treats. Bath Row crosses over the canal on the bridge.
 - 3 Looking forward from Islington Row Middleway Bridge at Five Ways train station.
 - 4 Looking back down a long straight path, the green railings hiding the railway line.
 - 5 The Tunnel, under Calthorpe Road. The light at the end of.
 - 6 Peering back into the tunnel.
 - 7 The Vale exit to University Halls of Residence. A pleasant wharf awash with joggers.
 - 8 The sun shone, and the water reflected.
 - 9 The end of my path at University Station.
 - 10 A lovely landmark a few yards from the station, Faraday by Eduardo Paolozzi, adorns the approach to the campus.
